Expedibox: A New Phase of Growth

A transition in shareholding and the arrival of a new Chief Executive Officer are supporting the company's next phase of national expansion.

Magog, August 13th, 2026 - Founded in Quebec in 2017, Expedibox has experienced continuous and sustained growth since its inception. With nearly 1,000 installations from Vancouver to Halifax, Expedibox has progressively established itself as one of the largest smart locker companies in the country.

Today, Expedibox is entering a new stage of its development with its acquisition by Marc Tardif, current owner of Perfix Inc., an international leader in the manufacturing of lockers and metal storage furniture.

This transaction reflects a strategy of synergy and expansion. It brings together two partners who have shared common development ambitions for several years. This new structure will enable Expedibox to continue and accelerate its national and international growth.

“This transaction is, for me, the way to respond to the immense opportunities in the smart locker market. With the synergy between Expedibox and Perfix, we will develop solutions that will propel us among the key players in North America.”

Co-founders and former shareholders Francis Campbell and Alexandre Vignola Côté remain actively involved within Expedibox. Francis will continue the journey as Chief Product Officer (CPO), allowing him to focus his efforts on product, technology, and innovation. Alexandre will maintain his responsibilities in business development and continue contributing to the company's growth and its relationships with clients and partners.

“I am extremely proud of what we have built since 2017 and even more excited about what lies ahead. This transition allows me to focus more on what has driven me from the beginning: the product, innovation, and the ways Expedibox can continue pushing the limits of its offering. I am convinced that the structure we are putting in place today is the right one to help us go even further.”

David-Alexandre Adolphe is the new Chief Executive Officer (CEO). With several years of experience developing customer experience in service markets and technological innovation, he will enable Expedibox, its teams, and its partners to meet the ever-evolving expectations of its clientele.

After ten years of growth, Expedibox is opening a new chapter in its history with a mission that remains unchanged: simplifying the management, delivery, transfer, and pickup of parcels through a network of smart, connected, secure lockers manufactured in Canada.
